as the races progress, the vehicles chew up the track just as they do in a real race spanish fly has been largely banned in many parts of the world because of its negative effects on health